

Land Of The Dancing Trees (c)Emerald Rose 2014

Verse

Am C G
 In the land of the dancing trees
Am C G Am
 The oaks delved deeply and danced in the breeze
 Great sylvan gods rose tall
Am C G Am
 And with every nation they were at peace
C G Am
 There rode the hero Lugh
Am C G Am
 He heard in his heart the majesty's call
 Fain would he dance their dance
Am C G Am
 And spend all his days in the forested hall
C G Am C G D
 "How shall a hero be welcome, in the land of the dancing trees?"

Verse

Am C G
 Have you the need of a cobbler
Am C G Am
 To make fine shoes for your deep-rooted feet
Am C G
 I have the skills bending leather
Am C G Am
 And great's my renown for the stichin' of seams
C G Am
 We have no need of your shoes lad
Am C G Am
 Bracken and soil keep our roots safe and warm
C G Am
 Better you cobble your own shoes
C G C Am
 So you may dance on the stones without harm
C G Am C G D
 "Then how may a hero be welcome, in the land of the dancing trees?"

Verse

"Have you the need for a baker

To bake fine breads and your table prepare
I know the grist and the risin'
I'll bake you a loaf that is lighter than air"
We have no need for your baking
Sunlight and sky's all the fare that we need
Take of our seeds and our fruits now
And use them to nourish your own bodies needs
"Then how may a hero be welcome, in the land of the dancing trees?"

Verse

"Have you the need for a warrior
To drive off your foes and your border secure
I know the blade and the hammer
I'll fight for your nation with hand swift and sure"
We have no need for your fighting
We have no treasure that we would not share
Go, then, and suffer your own wars
Peace is our kingdom and we shall live there
"Then how may a hero be welcome, in the land of the dancing trees?"

Verse

"But know you the Man of all Seasons
Master of skills in the service of light
The man who is every profession
So he may love every facet of life?"
Yes, we know the Man of all Seasons
King to your people and friend to the land
We welcome you home to your own heart
All of your kind will one day understand
"For thus may a hero be welcome, in the land of the dancing trees."
"For thus may a hero be welcome, in the land of the dancing trees."
